Using only the finest natural ingredients, many of them imported from around the world, sets Pie in the Sky apart from other local bakeries. Each item is lovingly handmade from scratch and does not include any trans-fats. They also have a variety of gluten-free products for those that are allergic to flour or choose from a selection of vegan or sugar free desserts.

Their dedication to using only the freshest natural ingredients and their attention to quality and customer service is why Pie in the Sky has been selected by residents and tourists alike as the Bay's "Best Bakery" for six years in a row by the Lifestyles Magazine Reader's Choice Awards.

In 1998, Pie in the Sky was bought by Susan Drexler and Philip J. Price, a couple from the San Francisco Bay Area. Together with their son Scott Miller, Executive Chef of Market Hall Catering and Cactus Taqueria in Oakland and Berkeley, California, they introduced additional gourmet items while maintaining the quality and integrity of the original Pie in the Sky product line.

Today, a dedicated staff of artisan bakers, under the direction of Manuela Guerrero Esparza with 19 years experience as the bakery's pastry chef, turns out fresh baked goodies every day.
